

UC Berkeley Freight Font Request Form (Print usage)

The Office of Communications & Public Affairs has purchased a limited number of Freight Family font licenses for use in graphic design. These licenses are intended to be used by UC Berkeley employees who are directly involved in the creation of print-related marketing and communication materials.

1. The Freight licenses are not available to students.
2. External designers working on a unit's project will need to buy their own license to Freight for use in print-related materials.
3. This form is only for access to the print-related Freight license. For online use (websites, e-newsletters, apps), you are required to buy a Freight license directly from Adobe Typekit, or you can use the free Open Sans font from Google. Note that if you use our approved Dreamweaver or WordPress templates, or the branded Open Berkeley Drupal instance, the Adobe Typekit license for Freight is included for use in websites.
